

APPLICATION FOR ACTIVE MEMBERSHIP IN THE
AMERICAN BRONCHOSOPHAGOLOGICAL
ASSOCIATION

The American Bronchoesophagological Association is a society of physicians who share their expertise in Broncho-Esophagology and meet annually for scholarly presentations on matters relevant to the science and practice of their specialty.

The objectives of the ABEA are (i) to educate physicians regarding optimal evaluation and management of upper aerodigestive tract disorders; (ii) to present, at the annual meeting of the ABEA held in conjunction with the Combined Otolaryngological Spring Meeting (“COSM”), research findings of medical interest and importance to the ABEA’s members; (iii) to advocate and support endoscopic training in residency and fellowship programs; (iv) to encourage and participate in basic and clinical research and continuing education programs all in concert with domestic, foreign and international colleagues and medical and surgical specialty organizations who share these objectives and concerns for the art and science of Broncho-Esophagology.

The proposal of an individual for active membership shall be by written recommendation to the Council of two active members, preferably practicing and residing in the community where the Applicant practices and resides. In addition, letters of recommendation are required from two local physicians attesting to the Candidate’s ethics and competency.

Applicants for active membership in the ABEA must also fulfill the following requirements:

- 1) The applicant must be a graduate of medicine, a diplomate of the recognized American Board of Medical Specialties (ABMS), engaged for three years or more in the active practice of his specialty, and on who by endoscopic skill and scientific ability has proven qualified as a Broncho-Esophagologist.
- 2) The Applicant shall demonstrate his or her expertise in Broncho-Esophagology, Laryngology, Gastro-Enterology, Pulmonology, Thoracic Diseases and/or related disciplines by submitting three articles authored by him/her addressing such areas of expertise. Presentation of evidence of the Applicant’s professional experience and operative skills is the obligation of the Members and local physicians recommending the Applicant for membership.

Attached is the application form for active membership. If you have any questions, contact the ABEA secretary:
